More particularly, the present invention relates to a method of providing information to a user of a visual display terminal at a point of sale display terminal and to a visual display terminal having means for providing information to a user. It is known in point of sale display terminals to display, for example, prices of products and to display explanatory messages such as messages telling customers about discounts or promotions. These messages are traditionally displayed in a way which is visible to a customer and they are preferably placed in a way which prevents the display from being obscured by a display product, for example a price indicator. Typically, the message is attached to a price indicator using an adhesive tape or other securing means. This has the disadvantage that in the case of a price change, a new price indicator with a message attached to it must be used. If a price is changed frequently, this method is labour intensive. It is also difficult to align the message with the price indicator at the point of sale display terminal. An object of the present invention is to provide a method of displaying information to a user of a visual display terminal at a point of sale display terminal which is efficient and simple.
