Sacred 3 Orcland Story Addon-RELOADED. zip : Sacred 3 Orcland Story Addon-RELOADED..Q: is there a way to add a char to a char array? int main() { char a[5]; char c; printf("enter a char:"); scanf("%c", &c); a[0] = 'a'; a[1] = 'b'; a[2] = 'c'; a[3] = 'd'; a[4] = 'e'; printf("%c", a[2]); return 0; } When I try this code I get a segmentation fault. How can I edit a to store c? I would also like to know why my original code works when I use int instead of char. A: With C, you can't modify a string. If you need to do such an operation, you need to do it in multiple steps: char *p = "hello"; // The string 'hello' p = "world"; // The string 'world' is now the new value of p You can do the following: #include int main() { char *a = "hello"; *a = 'w'; // a now contains "world" return 0; } Or you can use memcpy() to copy the string: #include int main() { char *a = "hello"; char b[] = "world"; memcpy(a, b, 6); // a now contains "world" return 0; } More information about strings can be found here.
