Install the downloaded Eclipse2010.0 Note: Eg:The latest .exe files you have downloaded is the Windows version, and you need to install this directly on a system with Windows OS. Open the setup file folder (Eg: C:\Eclipse) Install as per the instruction in the text file . Setup the Eclipse shortcuts on a desktop (To use on Windows or Linux computer) Eg: C:\Documents and Settings\User\Desktop\Eclipse Restart computer & follow the same process from step 11 Copy the binaries to the same folder Download and install the latest version of Eclipse 2010.0. Step 3: Open the eclipse.exe file using its shortcut placed on desktop. Step 4: Click on the "Update Site" option and choose "Available Software Sites..." as shown in the image below Step 5: Check both the boxes (Text file and zip file) Step 6: Click on the "Finish" button and it will reload the Eclipse. Step 7: Enjoy. A: As at August 2017, here's what I did and it worked: 1) download Eclipse for Windows from here 2) download the zip file (green), extract the zip file 3) Open the extracted archive 4) copy the extracted file into your Eclipse folder 5) restart your computer 6) now you should see the new icon Poisoning. Poisoning is a common, potentially fatal health problem. Although physicians are not always aware of this, they must be aware of the problem and understand the clinical presentations. They must keep in mind the possible etiologies of ingested poisons in each patient and recognize the toxic agents that have the greatest potential for causing serious or even fatal illness and death. Intracranial lesions that cause cognitive decline are rare, although intracranial lesions are more common in the elderly. Clinicians need to consider several types of intracranial lesions, such as brain tumors, autoimmune diseases, and vascular diseases, among others, when patients present with cognitive decline. A 32-year-old man visited our hospital with memory disturbances, and we hypothesized that he had a subcortical vascular malformation because of his age. However, brain computed tomography and magnetic resonance imaging revealed a well-circumscribed intracranial mass, and the mass was resected. The tumor proved to be a vestibular schwannoma.
